

Starke Arvid Fencing Stand

Simpler transport and storage

Much of the work when it comes to fencing consists of transportation and storage because of their cumbersome design. Starke Arvid's Fencing Stand allows you to save a lot of space because the fencing is stored upright and not lying down.

If a small amount of material is to be transported, the supplied divider can be used to reduce the load area and hold the load steady. Several stands can very simply be folded and stacked inside each other to take a minimum of space while being stored on a customer's site or in a storage area.
